STENOGRAPHIC GLIMPSES OF CONGRESS.

No. 132.

Washington, May 3, 1834.—The proceedings of the Senate were somewhat interesting today, arising from the presentment of a Whig memorial, from Nantucket, for the relief of that hardy class of our amphibious fellow citizens who put their hooks in the nose of the Leviathan.

As might be supposed from the nature of the case, there was a good deal of sputtering. Mr Silsbee resorted to his favorite argument, the fall of prices, and thought the country had lost many millions in this way.

But Mr Forsyth referring him for consolation to the price current, shew that the state of the market was just about the same that it was before the fall. He was very happy in his illustrations; and with the price current in his hand, distressed Mr Silsbee for a reply;

Mr Webster came to his rescue. He quoted the eulogium of Burke in aid of blubber; and shew very conclusively that the Nantucket whalers did not stand much in need of relief; for he adduced the fact that their whole trade had been twice destroyed, (during the Revolution, and the last war,) and yet was admitted to be in a flourishing condition before the removal of the depredations; and Mr Forsyth had moreover aided him in his argument, by showing that the prices of blubber were in statu quo ante bellum. He said this business required long credit; admitted that the whalers may have been guilty of over-trading; said "they had capital, but wanted credit?" Just what we supposed! and this is what the distress arises from—the "capitalists" want more credit! They want the aid of Nicholas Biddle and a National Bank. It is "Nick" or nothing with them. The Senator quoted the price of flour at New Orleans $2.87—(here's a chance for speculation;) and went a wool-gathering in Pa, and New England, asserting that the article had fallen 20 per cent. (there is no occasion for importation then); he indicated that his hopes of a Bank were forlorn hopes, as the House had laid that ghost by a majority of 50, and had gone against the "restoration" with a majority that looked down all opposition. He attributed all these evils and disasters to that man whose Proclamation he supported so strenuously, when it did not need his support. He said "any bungler could destroy—but it required skill, and patriotism, and wisdom to restore; and the powers above only knew when the restoration would come." Sperm! and blubber! why don't the Whigs, with all their wealth, and all the talents, and all the patriotism, and all the wisdom, just lend a hand to save the country, and let the Bank take care of itself? But the Bank is their country! and Mammon their god! As for us and our house, let us serve the God our fathers worshipped; stand by the country our fathers won; sustain the constitution they established; preserve the institutions they founded; prove ourselves worthy of the inheritance they transmitted;—and swear, upon the altar of Freedom, never to mortgage it to a National Bank, or a monied aristocracy! We do not envy the Midases their wealth, nor their asses' ears; and we care nothing about their wives.

In 1816 Mr Webster considered "a National Bank unconstitutional." If this were true then, it cannot be false now; truth depends upon no contingency.

Mr Clay then prophesied that "a National Bank would destroy our liberties." The prophecy might have been fulfilled, but for the wisdom and firmness of the present Chief Magistrate; who has had the singular good fortune to change none of his opinions, falsify none of his prophecies, and fail in none of his undertakings.

But to return to the debate. Mr Forsyth, always pertinent, happy, and forcible in his replies, even transcended himself to-day. He said he did not deny there was distress—all people over-trading, and trading on credit, were very likely to be distressed. He shewed that the products of the earth, the ocean, and the forests were as high now as last year! He passed a high encomium upon the enterprise, and skill, and courage of the people of New England, saying they stood unrivaled before the world. He adverted to the whale fishery, showing he thoroughly understood the subject. He replied to Mr Webster's allusion to his (Mr F.) "predictions," viz. that when the Bank question was settled, things would resume their natural positions, and asked, "Is the question settled?" To keep it unsettled, none was more eloquent than the Hon. gentleman himself; to keep it agitated was the object, and interest, and aim of the party; but when they should find they could not succeed, they would change their course, and join the other party in restoring things to their natural place. He said, in conclusion, that the opposition did not see things through true spectacles—but through glorification spectacles; they saw a distant prospect, where Hope enchanting smiled, and waved her golden hair!

Baltimore was near! People cheered from the gallery;—yes, plaudits and hisses in the Senate Chamber of the United States!—Whig associations in Baltimore!—detestable spirit,—but harmless as detestable,—convulsion!—but it will be local—the mischief, local—the crime, local—the punishment, local! Unlike Europe, it would not affect the government. No!—but dreadful indignation would fall upon the head of that man, who had thus agitated the country! the mischief—the crime—the punishment—the disgrace, would be local!

PURE BEAR'S OIL, may be had by the groce dozen, or single bottle, of A. BOYDEN, Hanock street.

As in all cases, so especially in this, Venders, if they wish to secure the patronage of the public, should be extremely careful not to sell an article for the Hair which tends to counteract rather than assist nature, which is the best article for strengthening and promoting the growth of the Hair. An honest prejudice against the use of Bear's Oil has long existed, arising from two causes—the improper method of purifying it, and the impession upon the public of a spurious article. That this prejudice may be wholly removed, this article now offered is warranted the pure Oil, rendered more pleasant by the addition of a little Perfume—and the possibility of its injuring the Hair is entirely precluded by the manner in which it has been purified. To prevent fraud, the genuine is enclosed in two wrappers, the inside one being signed Arnold Boyden.

FRIDAY, MAY 9, 1834.

NOTICE.—On Monday next, the 12th of this month, the size and price of this paper will be increased. It is now nearly double the size which it was when its publication was commenced at FOUR DOLLARS PER ANNUM; we shall still further enlarge it, and otherwise improve its mechanical appearance, as stated above, on the 12th instant, from which time its price will be SIX DOLLARS PER ANNUM. Those who have already paid in advance will receive their papers at the original rate until the expiration of the term for which they have paid, and those who may be unwilling to continue to take it upon the new conditions, are requested to settle their accounts and give notice of their desire to discontinue previous to the time of alteration. The daily publication of the Post now amounts to twenty-three hundred copies, for which we have upwards of TWO THOUSAND SUBSCRIBERS—this great circulation, with such improvements as we shall attempt to make in the Mercantile department, will render it one of the best papers for the insertion of advertisements in the city.

TO PRINTERS.—The type upon which this paper is printed, briefer and more parel, will be sold for twenty cents per pound, if applied for immediately.

The Bank Directors.—The nomination and rejection of these gentlemen is a subject that will not fail to command the serious attention of the reflecting part of the American people.

The President's Message, and the report of the Committee of the Senate, are before the public, and they will be read with interest. The report of the Senate entirely begs the question, which will be most carefully considered by the public—the qualifications of the nominees, and the propriety of their rejection.—

The report admits the right in the Executive to re-nominate, and claims also the right in the Senate to reject, without assigning any reason therefore. There can be no doubt of this right, so far as it relates to these co-ordinate branches of the Government. The President, indeed, begins his message by "disclaiming all pretensions of right on the part of the President, officially to inquire into, or call in question the reasons of the Senate for rejecting any nomination whatever," but the people, the tribunal to which both the President and the Senate have appealed, have a right which they will exercise, of judging the motives of the Senators, for their motives constitute the distinctive character of the act. The President, in his Message re-nominating these gentlemen, says—

"The characters and standing of these genlemen are well known to the community, and eminently qualify them for the offices to which I propose to appoint them. Their confirmation by the Senate, at its last session, to the same offices, is a proof that such was the opinion of them entertained by the Senate

at that time; and unless something has oc-urred since to change it, this act may now be referred to as evidence that their talents and pursuits justified their selection."

The characters and standing of these gen-

lemen are well known to the community, and eminently qualify them for the offices to which I propose to appoint them. Their confirmation by the Senate, at its last session, to

the same offices, is a proof that such was the opinion of them entertained by the Senate

at that time; and unless something has oc-

urred since to change it, this act may now be referred to as evidence that their talents and

pursuits justified their selection."

It appears then that the Senate last winter considered these directors to be worthy and competent officers; and if they have faithfully discharged their duty during the year, the Senate, though they have the legal right to reject them, without assigning a reason, will not be permitted to do it without a scrutiny into their motives by the public.

No one, we believe, in or out of Congress, alleges any charge against either the private or official conduct of these directors, except against the report they made to the President concerning the corrupt transactions of the Bank—and the following will show the nature of some of the startling facts which they exposed:—

"Yet, however objectionable may be this disposal of funds and exercise of power, without the knowledge and assent of the board, it has not been limited to the committee on exchange. When, at the end of the month of July last, the dividend committee met, one of us, being a member of it, observed accidently amidst the other accounts, that for the expenses of the institution. Among the charges were several to a large amount, so stated as to make it impossible for him to understand the character of the expenditure, but he thought it such as to render it our duty to institute an inquiry, and if necessary, to call the attention of the board to the subject. We stated to the president of the bank, our wish, as directors, to examine the accounts in question, and at his suggestion, did so in the room of the cashier. We found the accounts kept in such a manner, that it was altogether impossible to ascertain from them the particulars of many large expenditures. The book, in which they were entered, was never, within our knowledge, exhibited to the board, and their nature was probably unknown to most if not all the directors. They embraced, especially under the head of stationary and printing, payments, the character of which did not appear in the account, but which, when examined, were found to be for very large disbursements to printers and publishers of newspapers. Nor was this all—there were charges to a large amount, stated to be for payments on orders of the President, and for those there were no vouchers but the orders themselves. The authority on which these extraordinary expenditures were alleged to be made, was a resolution of the board, on the 30th of November, 1830, authorizing the President "to take such measures in regard to the circulation of the contents of an article on Banks and Currency, published in the American Quarterly Review, either in whole or in part, as he might deem most for the interest of the bank;" and another on the 11th March, 1831, authorizing him "to cause to be prepared and circulated such documents and papers as may communicate to the people information in regard to the nature and operations of the bank."

The existence of these resolutions had been unknown to us, and probably to many other members of the board; yet a large sum had been expended under them, during the very six months just elapsed—while we were members of the board, without our concurrence or even the slightest knowledge on our part, that such expenditures were made.

Having ascertained, as far as the manner of keeping this account enabled us to do, the extent to which these expenditures had been carried, we called the serious attention of the board to the subject, at the very next meeting. We stated to them the examination we had made, and the unexpected result that had arisen from it, limited as it was. However general the expressions of the resolutions might be, it never could have been contemplated by the directors, that such enormous and unusual expenditures should be made for an indefinite period—and, above all, that they should be made in such a manner, as to preclude any knowledge on the part of the board of their real nature and extent, until long after they were incurred. Besides this, there was nothing, as we conceived, in the words of the resolution, that justified the disbursements by the president of the bank, to the amount of about twenty thousand dollars, without exhibiting receipts and accounts thereof. Such a system was entirely unauthorized by the stockholders, and ought to be immediately discontinued, by an express direction of the board, if it was conceived that it was allowed by the resolution in question.

However much it might destroy the rights of the directors, to confer upon a committee of exchange, selected by the president, the most important powers of the board, as we saw lately done by the alteration of the by-laws—it seemed to us infinitely more dangerous to the interests of the institution, thus to allow the president to expend their money for an indefinite time and unlimited amount—and in a manner which virtually excluded the board from any knowledge of the object and the extent of the disbursements, if not altogether, certainly until long after they had been made. We believed, and still believe, that to permit such a system to pass unnoticed, would have been a gross dereliction from our duty as representative agents—if sustained, it ought at least to be sanctioned by the stockholders and the public—not to depend on the votes of a board of directors.

But it was not only the character of this expenditure to which we called the attention of the board. Its amount, when the avowed object was taken into consideration, was, as we believed, altogether excessive. The expenditure during the last six months of the year 1829, under the head of printing and stationary, had been only $3765.94; in the first six months of 1830, it had been $7131.27; and in the last six months of the same year $650 20; making a total, during the whole of that period, of $17,847.41, and an average expenditure for each half year of $8949.13.—The expenditure of the next two years, under the same head, appeared to be during the first half year of 1831, $29,979.92

the last half year of 1831, 12,224.86

the first half year of 1832, 12,134.16

the last half year of 1832, 26,543.72

making a total, during the whole of that period, $31,882.67; and an average expenditure, for each half year, of $20,470.66. It was impossible for us to imagine that such an enormous difference in expenditures, under a single head of the expenses of the institution, prolonged, too, throughout the years 1831 and 1832, could have been contemplated, or was to be justified by the resolutions passed, in such vague terms, so long before. If they were, it was certainly time that disbursements so large, and for purposes so unusual, should be brought more immediately before the board.

Ireland.—A serious riot and affray took place about the beginning of April, at Portadown. There was much destruction of property, and, as usual, much breaking of heads.

Germany.—The Frankfort Gazette of the 29th March, announces the death of the reigning Duke of Anhalt-Bernburg, father of the Princess Frederick of Prussia.

Greece.—Recent accounts from Napoli di Roma announce the death of the Greek Captain Colocotroni, in the prison in which he had been confined several months, for having taken part with several other chiefs in a conspiracy against the government.

The Farewell Benefit of the Woods was well attended. At the conclusion of the performance, a beautiful chaplet of flowers was thrown upon the stage by a gallant young gentleman; but unfortunately the curtain was suffered to fall between the fair vocalist and the wreath—the Manager, however, soon made his appearance, and upon learning for whom the rosy diadem was intended, retired, and the Queen of Song was soon presented to the audience, under the protection of Mr Wood, crowned with the token of admiration and esteem, which had been cast at her feet. Mr W. then expressed his gratitude for the many kindnesses extended to his lady and himself during their sojourn here, and their deep regret at the necessity of leaving friends so kind and liberal; to his brief and feeling remarks the audience answered in three cheers.

Warren Theatre.—Mrs. ASBURY, who has contributed her quota to the stock of theatrical entertainments, this season, by her spirited and elegant translations of "Baron Trenck," and "Caught in Shower," will take a benefit on the Warren, this evening, when we expect to see her unquestionable claims as an actress and authoress, handsomely acknowledged by the liberal and discriminating patrons of the drama. The pieces are the "Six Degrees of Crime," and "High Life Below Stairs," in both of which Mrs A. appears to advantage.

Finn's Benefit.—Mr Finn, the old evergreen, and perpetual favorite, puts forth for a Spring Benefit this evening. On this occasion, two new pieces—"The Heart of Midlothian," and "Removing the Deposites"—will be produced.

Helen, Miss Edgeworth's last and best novel, has received additional value in the beautiful style in which the Messrs. Harpers have reprinted it—all should own it—in fact the "Uniform Edition" of her works ought to be in every family who possess the means of procuring it, and the capacity of appreciating the genius of one whom John Randolph declared the best writer in the English language.

Levison's Mental Culture, a most valuable volume, and published in a style worthy of its merit, by Allen and Ticknor, is for sale at our Bookstores. Its contents should be impressed upon the heart of every parent.

The Corner Stone, or Illustrations of Christian Truth, is the title of an excellent moral book published by Mr William Pierce.

3. Mild Aperient, Deobstruent or Female Pills.—These are recommended in almost all complaints which Females are subject to, such as obstructions of customary evacuations and all nervous afflictions, sick Headach, pain and painlessness of the heart and breast, Weakness, Debility, Hypothesis, Flatulence, Costiveness, Inflammations, Sciatica and indeed all complaints incident to the human frame. They are perfectly harmless, and may be taken in all cases and all stages; they will neither hinder business nor amusement, and will, if persisted in, prevent and carry off numerous complaints, which are daily sending many of our fairest and worthiest of creation to an untimely grave.

4. Ulcers, Consumption, Alternative Pills.—These Pills are designed for Consumptive complaints in all their different stages, and may be taken with perfect safety; they act altogether as an aperient. The same kind of Pills have twice saved my life in consumption, when every thing was prepared for my funeral except the coffin; to these and to Pill No. 2, I owe my present wonderful recovery from a complication of diseases, accompanied with Ulcers of the Phagedenic nature, which for nearly 9 years bid defiance to the first Physicians in Massachusetts and New York, and was pronounced by them incurable. The Pills are pure vegetable, but act very powerfully on the system without producing any dangerous or disagreeable effects. Used with great success in Herpes, Eczema and Phagedenic Ulcers or Erysipelas, Scrofula and Calous eating Ulcers.

5. Rheumatic Pills.—These operate by stool, urine, perspiration and as a general aperient. Rheumatism is often accompanied with pains in various parts of the body, and other diseases such as Scrofula, Scurvy, White Swelling, Gout, Syphilis. Where nothing is supposed to be heretic, but Gout or Rheumatism, they are an infallible remedy.*

6. Asthmatic Pills.—An infallible remedy for Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Whooping Cough, Asthma and Dropsey complaints; they are expectorant and slightly purgative.

7. Syphilitic or Antivenereal, Chemical Pills.—All my Pills with the exception of these are compounded from the vegetable kingdom alone, but as there are a great many complicated diseases frequently accompanying Rheumatism, Scrofula, Gout, pains in the head and joints, which are generally worse when the patient is in bed, such of these as do not give way to some of the foregoing Vegetable Pills, as there may be some remains of Virga, in its confined state, lurking in the system or in other words mingled with the juices of the body, whether from a hereditary taint, or some indisposition in youth, and as it is well known, or ought to be known, that there is but one certain cure for this complaint whatever pretenders and quacks may tell you, these are annually carried off by this direful complaint.

MARSHALL'S FLUID EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA.

for the cure of Obstinate Eructions of the Skin, Pimples or Pustules on the Face, Biles which arise from an impure habit of body, Scaly Eructions, Pains in the bones, Chronic Rheumatism, Tetter, Scrofula or King's Evil, White Swellings, Syphilitic Symptoms, and all disorders arising from an impure state of the blood, produced either by long residence in a hot and unhealthy climate, the injurious use of mercury, &c.

It has been used in conjunction with Physicians and Patients, to obtain an active preparation of Sarsaparilla in a convenient and portable form. Since Dr Hancock's publication in the London Medico Botanical Transactions, and Mr Hodgson's recent Paper in the Journal of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy—demonstrating the efficacy, and asserting the inertness of any Distinct, Syrup, or Compound Fluid Extracts made by long and continued boiling; it has been induced to prepare a Concentrated Syrup of Sarsaparilla, by a process peculiar to myself; and, aided by a powerful hydraulic press, have succeeded in obtaining a more efficient and active preparation than has ever before been manufactured.

This very convenient and active Syrup is now with confidence offered to the Medical Profession and the public, as possessing in an eminent degree all the active properties of the Sarsaparilla in its most concentrated form.

One pint of the Syrup thus prepared contains the active principle of two pounds of Sarsaparilla. One fluid ounce is equal in strength to one quart of the decoction of the London Pharmacopœia or the Lisbon Diet Drink.

This article possesses an agreeable and pleasant flavor—and the most delicate and fastidious stomach will bear it conveniently.

A SUPERIOR ARTICLE FOR SHAVING.

AN SAPONACEOUS COMPOUND. For sale by MAYNARD & NOYES, Agents, 13 Cornhill, M. & N. are happy to say that the testimony of many gentlemen in this city and vicinity correspond fully with the following recommendation from Dr Reese, of New York.

August 5, 1830. I have used the "Saponaceous Compound" of Mr Prentiss, and find it more pleasant to the face, than any of the shaving soaps I have ever employed, either foreign or domestic. I have no occasion for warm water, and the operation of shaving has lost with me half its inconvenience; since I availed myself of this useful invention. As a mild emollient, and soothing application to the skin, I highly esteem it, and recommend it to my patients as a medicine in cutaneous diseases. Respectfully yours, D. M. REESE.

From Sylvanus Plympton, M. D.

Messrs. Lowe & Reed. Gentlemen—I have frequently administered your Compound Chlorine Tooth Wash in various affections of the mouth and throat—and it has been immediate and permanent. I hesitate not to give it my entire approbation for the purposes for which it was made, and consider it one of the most safe, pleasant, and effectual articles of the kind ever offered to the public. I am yours, &c., S. PLIMPTON
